

Thank You for Taking This Journey

Final Note

If you made it this far, you're someone who cares — and I don't take that lightly. This manual isn't about perfection. It's about presence. The more you know, the more we both can grow. Thank you for being here. —Cody

I want to express my sincere gratitude for taking the time to read and understand this manual. By engaging with this content, you're showing a willingness to meet me halfway in building meaningful connections and understanding.

Your openness to learning about my unique experiences, challenges, and ways of being in the world means a lot to me. This kind of mutual understanding helps create safer, more inclusive spaces where authentic relationships can flourish.

Remember that this guide is a living document - just like me, it may evolve and change over time. Your patience and willingness to learn and grow alongside me is deeply appreciated.

Together, we can create more compassionate and understanding relationships that honor both our similarities and our differences.